Next steps for IntelComp

- In July, we will publish on the IntelComp website:
  - A report on the domain specific needs and Public Administration and stakeholder assessment in AI, climate change and health
  - A policy brief on the use of AI and data-driven tools for STI policy design
- Building on these reports, in the next semester we will, with your help (via interviews, surveys or workshops):
  - Define the outputs and practical functions of the platform to answer the policy questions discussed today
  - Outline the data sources of the platform
  - Specify the tools of the platform
- All this work feeds in as input to the future living labs that will be organized in the context of the project
